Welcome to

Capital Ideas

Capital Ideas is a magazine sponsored and published by Architectural Building Technology to promote the professional services of ABT and the industry as a whole.

Capital Ideas is distributed to architects, engineers, contractors, property managers, real estate brokers, attorneys, civic leaders, trade associations, and those in related industries who will benefit from our articles and promotional advertising. Our goal is to stimulate and share new ideas, to educate our readers, and to promote both our profession and services.

The magazine's sponsor, ABT, is a full service architectural firm which offers specialized consulting services for roofing and waterproofing. With a strong emphasis on technical specifications writing and contract administration for construction, ABT's seasoned expertise reflects a solid eighteen year track record and a clear dedication to quality and service.

We are totally committed to the success and effectiveness of Capital Ideas and we look to you, our readers and advertisers, to comment on our articles and critique the topics which are important to you. We actively encourage your contribution to this publication in the form of articles or suggestions for topics you would like to see highlighted within these pages.

Publication and distribution costs are made possible through the support of our advertisers.

Capital Ideas will be published and distributed in response to your comments. We want to be your platform for new "Capital Ideas," as well as your forum for addressing concerns relative to our field. We look forward to serving you and our industry. Let us hear from you, and often.
